

Regina, Mike and Caitlin

Dear Birthmother,

We would like to thank you so very much for choosing to give life to your child and, in turn, providing us with the hope that our dreams will come true. You are making a courageous decision that shows what tremendous strength and character you have. We understand that your decision will certainly be one of the most difficult you will ever make and we cannot begin to fathom the range of emotions that you must be going through. We would like to reassure you that we will provide your child with the utmost love and caring that you could imagine.

We met in 2001 on St. Patrick's Day. One year later, we were engaged and we were married on Columbus Day weekend in 2002. Some people may think that a year is not long enough. Sometimes in life, you just realize when something is right. Now, ten years later, we remain extremely happy, content, and grateful to have each other in our lives. The past eight years of marriage have been good to us. We bought a house, settled down and supported each other through the good times and the bad. We look forward to many more years together. Our greatest struggle and challenge during our marriage had been starting a family. We went through five years of fertility treatments with none a success. For us the realization was that we just wanted a family. In December of 2009 our dreams came through when we adopted our beautiful daughter Caitlin. She has been a joy and light of our lives. We would so like to add to our family again through adoption.

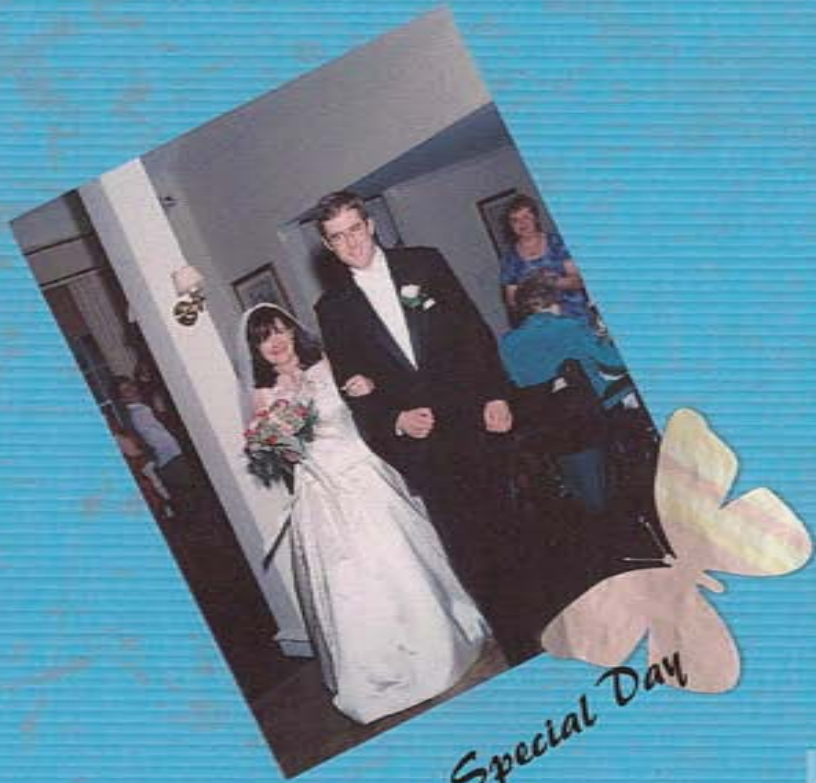

We both were lucky to be raised by loving families that focused on belief in God, honesty and hard work. We were both raised Christian and are members of a local church. We are very close to our family members and see them on a weekly basis. Our parents live close, so there is always a gremmie or grampie around.

We look forward to a lot of the simple things like building a swing set in the yard, playing at the park and just spending time together and teaching our children about all kinds of things as they grow. We want to reassure you that your child will be raised in a household of fun and laughter.

Regina has her MBA and works as a business analyst for an insurance company, and will be taking time off for family leave when the baby is born. Mike has a CPA and MBA. He works as an accounting manager. We live in a town that has a very good school system and your child would have a great head start in terms of education. Regina loves to shop with her mother and Caitlin. Mike is an avid sports fan who enjoys local sport teams. We have taken a few trips to Ireland as Mike has many relatives there.

We are so grateful that you are considering us to give your child a home that will be forever appreciated of your decision to make our dream come true. Thank you and we wish you the very best always.
